RED HOPE? The Blacklisting of Hope Foye
(Her Story, Her Songs) – Runtime 75 min.

Few people alive today can tell about the tumultuous times of the "McCarthy Era" of the 1940s and 1950s. Fewer will share their frightening experience of being called a "communist" and interrogated by U.S. Senators, their loyalty questioned, with the threat of being executed or sent to prison for treason. This documentary immerses the audience into the Senate chambers with singer/activist Hope Foye sharing her story and her mellifluous voice in song.
